Philanderer Silvio Berlusconi Wanted to Deport Non-Italians Except Pretty Girls – The Beauty of Ethnic Mixing

Well-known center-right politician and playboy Silvio Berlusconi is known for his Trump-like jokes regarding his philandering with women.

> Italian Prime Minister Silvio Berlusconi has boasted of sleeping with eight women in one night. ‘Yesterday evening there was a queue outside my door,’ said Mr Berlusconi. ‘There were 11. I had eight because I couldn’t go any further. You can’t do all of them.’ The call was on New Year’s Day 2009, with Mr Berlusconi adding: ‘I feel good this morning . . . the things you have to do on New Year’s Eve.’

Now, zero men actually see this as problematic. Most undoubtedly envy a man who can not only do that many in one night, but has the opportunity. Mussolini himself was well-known as a womanizer, having hundreds of mistresses. I’ve said before that I would always prefer a ruler who was both ruthless, paternalistic and personally moral. But that combination is hard to come by. If all we get is competent and paternalistic, I’ll take it over corporate stooges like Mike Pence who are so pure it makes the pope blush.

> The Italian prime minister, who is renowned for making jokes of questionable taste, was speaking to journalists after holding talks with the prime minister of Albania, Sali Berisha. Mr Berlusconi, 73, said an accord between Italy and Albania had successfully clamped down on the trafficking of illegal immigrants across the Adriatic Sea by people smugglers. He then joked: “I said to Sali – we’d make exceptions for anyone bringing over beautiful girls.” Mr Berlusconi, whose wife is divorcing him for his alleged philandering, also joked with female Albanian journalists: “You know I’m single now.”

I’m not sure if Albanians are considered White Europeans, but I would assume so and as such, I don’t have a problem with them mixing with Italians in some measure. Sometimes ethnic mixing within the White race, especially when the combinations are rare, can actually produce something beautiful. In no case can race mixing ever produce something beautiful, and so I am against it in all cases, but not purely for that reason. The only caveat to ethnic mixing is that I still want the various ethnic groups within the White race to maintain their specific culture, heritage, history, language, and nation-state. I don’t want any White ethnic group to just indiscriminately mix with another. If the Irish were to all take Russian spouses, Ireland would cease to exist. Half-Irish, half-Russian offspring are not going to be able to create societies like Russia or like Ireland. But since the White race needs unity now more than ever to fight against our inner guilt, our external genocide and our fragmentation along nationalist lines, perhaps a certain amount of mixing could be beneficial.

My own example is perhaps the best. I am 50% Spanish (not Hispanic), 25% French, and 25% Irish and German equally split. As such, I have never identified myself as primarily any one of these ethnicities, but only ever as American, and more recently due to my redpilling as White European. Because of this mixing, I have great love and share an identity with so much of Europe, that Europe itself is my identity. I couldn’t take the Spanish side over the French, because I’m both. Similarly, ethnic mixing could be a great boon for European identity, if done by a few.
